Valley-wide push

Wanted: a central transport system

PLEASANTON — The trials and tribulations of people with special transportation needs are being met head-on by a group that wants to find solutions.

Problems plus plans to solve them were explored yesterday at Century House in Pleasanton by a group of 35. Representatives of county government and various agencies were included.

In San Ramon, a group of senior citizens seeking transportation aid adjourned their own meeting being held at the same time. They sent their president, Phil Flores, to join the assembly in Pleasanton.

The group being organized by Flores had met one other time. "I think the more people we get organized to face this transportation problem, the more likely we are to accomplish our goals," Flores said. "I was anxious to go to the meeting in Pleasanton and see what I could learn from people who have been more involved in this problem before."

One of the main problems is getting funds to support a transportation system, according to Peggy Woodring. She represented the Metropolitan Transit Commission (MTC).

"County, federal and MTC funding is available but it's not enough," Woodring pointed out. "No transit operation that I know of makes money."

All agreed the first move is to form a committee. It would include a representative from each group that needs to participate. "There is no Valleywide transportation committee that I know of so maybe there would be some merit to forming one," said Valerie Raymond, Alameda County's first district supervisor.

Richard Howell from Garnet Austin Center in Livermore said, "A separate committee such as this would provide a means to retain accountability. The problem would not get lost in the red tape of other agencies." The Garnet Austin Center cares for developmentally disabled adults.

Two alternatives were considered for gaining support for the proposed committee.

One was from the Congress of Valley Agengies (COVA); the other from Tom McCormick, revenue sharing coordinator from Alameda County.

"COVA could perhaps sponsor the committee," Raymond said. "That would seem to be a logical approach. Their endorsement would provide effective backing."

D.S. Stratton, board member of the Garnet Austin Center in Livermore for developmentally disabled adults, had keen interest in a Valleywide transportation service.

Sinatra pilot once lived in Pleasanton

PALM SPRINGS — A former Pleasanton resident was co-pilot of a Lear jet that crashed on a snow-swept mountain northwest of Palm Springs Thursday, killing four persons including the 82-year-old mother of singer Frank Sinatra.

Jerald W. Foley, 43, was an employe of Jet Avia Inc. of Las Vegas, commissioned to fly Natalie "Dolly" Sinatra to her son's opening performance at Caesars Palace.

Foley, 43, resided at 1416 Ridgewood Road in Pleasanton for 2½ years with his wife Paula and their three daughters, Susan, Missie, and Brice.

A former lieutenant - colonel in the Navy, he worked at the Naval Air Station in Alameda while a Valley resident.

He knew he'd be caught, but . . .

IMPERIAL BEACH, Calif. (AP) — "I couldn't very well arrest him," a U.S. border patrolman said after a 15 - year - old illegal alien from Mexico left his hiding place to save the life of the border agent's son.

And for Jose Ruben Garibay Canal, it wasn't a very hard choice either. "I knew I would be caught if I left the bushes," he said. "I had to do it."

Garibay was in the United States illegally when he hid last Saturday in the thick bushes of the Tia Juana slough just north of the border.

A horse approached. Kevin Pearce, the 14 - year - old son of border patrolman Frank Pearce, was riding the mare when she suddenly fell in a rain - swollen pond. Young Pearce's left leg was pinned beneath the horse.

From his hiding place Garibay "waited briefly," he said later, then sloshed for 60 feet through chest - high water to Pearce, who was struggling to keep his head above water.

After pulling the American boy free, Garibay joined Pearce in freeing the horse from the mud.

The two teenagers, neither seriously injured, jumped on the mare's back and rode to Pearce's stables where Kevin's mother was waiting.

Frank Pearce, assigned to catch illegal aliens, said of young Garibay: "Kevin owes that boy a whole bunch, and so do we. The horse and our son could have drowned."

Pearce did not arrest Garibay, but drove back to the international border and set him free.

The boy wants to become an American, Pearce said.

"I promised him I would do all I can to help him."

Chowchilla defendants seek change

OAKLAND (AP) — Attorneys representing two of the three defendants accused of kidnaping 26 Chowchilla children and their school bus driver asked a judge Monday to move the trial out of Alameda County.

Herbert Yanowitz, representing Frederick N. Woods, and Lester Gendron, counsel for James Schoenfeld, contended that pretrial publicity in Alameda County had been prejudicial against their clients and that a fair jury could not be found in the county.

The trial was moved several months ago from Madera County on the same grounds.

Edward Merrill, attorney for the third defendant, Richard Schoenfeld, did not join the request. "We're satisfied," Merrill said.

Retired Superior Court Judge Leo Deegan of Riverside set Feb. 14 for a hearing on the change of venue motion. He also scheduled a hearing Feb. 28 on a motion to quash the indictment on grounds of insufficient evidence.

The three defendants, clad in white jail overalls, sat quietly during the 10-minute hearing Monday. They are being held in lieu of $1 million bail each.

A 'natural' for wastewater

Detailed plan to recycle

Nearly all of the valley's leaders have scoffed at wastewater recycling, but John Fraga thinks it is an idea whose time has come.

Voters rejected the idea of putting the effluent into a pipeline to San Francisco Bay and that was before the cost projections for it were found to be 62 per cent too low. Everyone says that recycling wastewater still would be too expensive, even in comparison to the pipeline, but Fraga doesn't think so.

With all the farm land available in the Valley for spray irrigation, wastewater recycling is a natural, Fraga feels. Fraga, acting as a public spirited private citizen, outlined a program of how the valley could get into water recycling for all its sewage treatment plants.

First, develop the overall plan, including estimates about how much acreage is needed for spray irrigation or water recreation. Then refine cost estimates, plan the financing and get voter approval.

The above should take four months then it's off to the second phase. Fraga thinks that would include buying 2,000 acres for spray irrigation and taking long term options on another 3,000 acres within five miles of the original spray irrigation area. Then you acquire rights of way, easements and so on, then go to a preliminary bid and design modification suggestions. This would take about a year, he thinks.

The third phase, occupying five years, would establish the actual irrigation, construct the outfall lines from the treatment plant.

In the fourth phase, Fraga would have a treatment plant constructed at the farm site in modules of two million gallons per day of treated effluent.

Traditional arguments against spray irrigation in this valley have included the high salt content of the effluent, which could percolate down into the groundwater basin.

Assemblyman names aide

Betty Nostrand, a Pleasanton Elementary School District trustee for the past two years, has been appointed a staff aide to Assemblyman Floyd Mori.

Nostrand will staff the Assemblyman's Pleasanton office, succeeding Karen Kinney who will move to a Mori staff assignment in Sacramento.

Mori said he asked Nostrand to take the position because he wanted someone well - known in the community to provide a good communication link between him and valley residents.

Nostrand first became acquainted with Mori through the meetings of Mori's valley committee on education, which meets every other month.

Nostrand is a docent for the Livermore - Amador Valley Museum and a member of the Valley chapter of the American Association of University Women.

Look at school funding

The recent court decision on school funding, setting 1980 as the goal for equalizing education in California, will be discussed tonight by Livermore Unified School District trustees.

As a low - wealth school district, Livermore stands to benefit by the latest state Supreme Court action. Tonight's meeting also features discussion of the district sex discrimination and conflict of interest policies. It begins at 7:30 p.m. in the Education Center, 685 Las Positas Blvd. (at Murrieta).

Graduation requirements

Approval of a list of minimum competencies for graduation will come before the Amador Valley Joint High School District board at their Tuesday night meeting.

Trustees are slated to meet at the Dublin High School library at 8 p.m.

It was not known if Amador district teachers planned any presentation for the board meeting, or if the board would receive an update on negotiations from the staff.

Trustees will also hear building reports, a Foothill High report, act on a number of policies, execute a contract for a Regional Occupational Program relocatable building at Valley Memorial Hospital, and act on a resolution to authorize bids for painting at Dublin and Foothill High Schools.

Dead after wreck

A 79-year-old Livermore woman was killed Sunday morning when her car was struck broadside near North Livermore Avenue and Hartman Road, highway patrol officials report.

Anna Sachau of Livermore was pronounced dead on arrival at Valley Memorial Hospital.

According to reports, Mrs. Sachau was driving eastbound on Hartman Road about 10:10 a.m. Sunday. As she pulled out onto North Livermore Avenue, her car was struck broad side by a vehicle driven by Russell William Arnew, 17, of 1224 Greenville Road.

Arnew reportedly received minor injuries as a result of the accident. An investigation is continuing.

BART terms

Bay Area Rapid Transit District supervisors, whose salaries average some $26,000 yearly, could garner up to two years severance pay according to terms of their tentative pay pact, Lesher Newspapers has learned. BART directors will vote on the contract this Thursday.

BART General Manager Frank Herringer, who negotiated the agreement Saturday, said the severance pay issue is part of every union agreement. Should an outside arbitrator rule a BART supervisor was fired for other than reasonable cause, or that the dismissal was "arbitrary," the district either will have to rehire the employe, "or pay a penalty of up to two years salary depending upon his length of service," said Herringer.

The 110 members of the BART Supervisory and Professional Association threatened to walk out yesterday. They include train control computer room operators, line personnel and payroll supervisors, and research analysts.

Growing Sammy gets national audience

He'll reach new heights on ABC television

LIVERMORE — Sammy Spear, the little four year old who almost didn't have a chance to grow taller than 34 inches because of a fluke in his body chemistry, will be part of a "Good Morning America" television show dealing with growth problems.

Sammy is one of the limited number of youngsters allotted the scarce Human Growth Hormone which takes over the job of a failing pituitary gland.

Sammy and his parents, Joe and Nelda Spear of Livermore, were featured in several articles in The Times during the past few months.

Sammy's needed growth hormone is scarce because few people realize the pituitary gland must be donated for use after a person's death and even fewer people have actually donated their glands.

A member of the Bay Area chapter of the Human Growth Foundation persuaded Geraldo Rivera of the ABC morning show to schedule a special report Jan. 19 on growth disorders and growth failure.

The show, hosted by David Hartman between 7 and 9 a.m., will probably air the growth segment at 8 a.m.

Taping of the report took place early last month during a foundation meeting at the UC hospital in San Francisco.

Rivera zeroed in on a typical foundation meeting, discussing with the member families the problems they have experienced.

At the close of the shooting session, he turned to Sammy and another youngster — the smallest ones there — and said, "I want the one in the green shirt and the one in the red shirt to come with me."

He grasped their tiny hands and started walking down the hall.

The camera zoomed in on the trio's backs and the address for more information was superimposed on their image. At the end of the hall, they turned and kneeled down.

"Stand up and show them how tall you are," Rivera told the youngsters.

Sammy proudly rose to his new 38 inch height, a 3½ inch gain since he started taking the growth hormones last April.

Next month he makes another visit to the doctor for reevaluation. He's nearing the end of his supply and must now reapply to the foundation's headquarters in Baltimore for more, if it is available.

Repeating the need for pituitary gland donors and financial contributions, the Spears recalled a comment by a foundation official after the taping: "Good Morning America has millions of viewers across the nation and we become very excited when we think of the positive effect this might have in helping the thousands of children who have no answer to their growth problems."

Not guilty plea in music theft

LIVERMORE — A Pleasanton man pleaded not guilty in municipal court here to charges of possessing two flutes reportedly stolen from the Amador High School band room last October.

Ronald Ray Bailey, 22, 3819 Vineyard Ave., a janitor at the school, told police he bought the flutes from an unidentified man. Value of the flutes was placed at $464.

Police ran a computer check to locate the flutes in two Oakland pawn shops, where pawn slips indicated the flutes were pawned for $25 and $15.

Bailey is scheduled for a Jan. 25 court appearance to schedule a preliminary hearing.

In other court action:

Carlos Espinosa, 32, pleaded not guilty to a hashish possession charge Wednesday. He was arrested after an Oct. 4 disturbance at Malley's Restaurant, 2118 First Street, Livermore, when a computer check indicated Espinosa was on probation from a prior conviction and police searched him.

He was charged with possessing a small piece of hash wrapped in aluminum foil and one marijuana cigarette.

Espinosa is scheduled for a Jan. 12 appearance in court to set the date for a preliminary hearing.

— Ouida May Hubbard, 29, of Oakland, an inmate at Santa Rita prison, pleaded not guilty to charges of possessing heroin in her cell.

A sheriff's report indicated two green balloons containing the heroin were allegedly found wrapped in a napkin on her food tray.

She had just returned from a 48 hour pass prior to the charge. A preliminary hearing is scheduled for Jan. 19.

— Paul V. Garlock, 27, of San Leandro pleaded not guilty Wednesday and waived a preliminary hearing on charges he escaped from the same prison.

He was bound over to Superior Court for a Jan. 19 appearance.

Garlock was one of three inmates who reportedly walked away from the facility Dec. 19 and were seen walking near I-580.

Arrest warrants have been issued for Carl D. Fernandez, 32, of Oakland, and John L. Wyman, 28, of Fremont.

Deputies said the reported escape was through a rear door that was "kicked out."

— Terry Keith, 22, and Ralph Arnold Keith, 23, of Redwood City, were scheduled for a Feb. 23 preliminary hearing on grand theft charges after sheriff's deputies found a freshly slaughtered cow on a ranch near Koopmann Road, Pleasanton.

Brown unveils budget

SACRAMENTO (AP) — Gov. Edmund Brown Jr. unveiled a $15.2 billion state spending plan yesterday that promises hundreds of millions of dollars in the coming year for tax relief, local schools and new prisons.

The governor asked for a $1.9 billion increase over the current year, a record spending boost.

No new state or local taxes are proposed. School support would be increased by $290 million to $3.2 billion, with most of it going to low-wealth districts. Welfare grants would be increased six per cent.

Suburban homeowners and elderly renters stand to gain the most in a $480 million tax relief plan.

It contains tax rebates of $56 to $700 each for 1.9 million of California's 3.8 million homeowners and rebates of $15 to $288 each for up to 416,000 elderly renters.

"The important concept is that this budget does not call on people of this state for any new general tax increase, and it does so despite the fact that it includes a proposal for major property tax relief of close to half a billion dollars," Brown said.

In the tax relief plan, $400 million is intended for homeowners, and $80 million for renters.

The $290 million increase in Brown's public school finance package includes $220 million earmarked for low-wealth districts. That is the first phase of a five-year move toward compliance with the Serrano school equalization ruling of the California Supreme Court.

Water reclamation

Fraga thinks the answer to that one is to get all the salts out at the drinking end. He thinks that Zone 7 could install a reverse osmosis filter plant and add only $3 or $4 per month to the average resident's water bill. It would mean people with water softeners could quit paying $10 per month, so there would be a saving to the homeowner, said Fraga.

Robert Pearson seems to be the only Zone 7 director who likes the reverse osmosis plant idea, though. The others have commented that the technology is not good enough yet.

There is literature which has glowing reports on the success of reverse osmosis plants, but it is printed by the manufacturers. The success stories seem to come from Midwestern towns with 2,000 population. It's not clear whether a city of 50,000 would find reverse osmosis able to meet its daily water needs, at least on any economical scale.

The Times checked with the El Dorado Irrigation District which operates a reverse osmosis filter system at the sewage treatment plant at Kirkwood Meadows ski resort in the Sierra.

The unit is extremely efficient, said Treatment Plant Operator Randall Schultz, but is expensive, though he didn't have any figures to prove just what "expensive" means in this case.

The unit processes around 25,000 gallons per day. At 280 gallons a day per person, the average sewage plant demand in the Valley, that's service for 90 people, so again there is no information about cost and efficiency for a big demand like the Valley, where 16 million gallons per day will be needed in 20 years or so.

However, if it's technically feasible to put in wastewater recycling, Fraga thinks that revenue from crops will help pay the cost of water treatment. Bill Crooks at the Central Valley Regional Water Board, agreed.

Pleasanton pilot dies

Neighbors said yesterday the family had traveled somewhat before arriving in Pleasanton, with previous homes in Texas and Florida.

Neighbors characterized the Foleys as an "average" family, making many close friends that still communicate with them down in Las Vegas.

Jerald Foley retired from the Navy in May of last year "to fly celebrities around Las Vegas," one neighbor remembered.

The family moved to Las Vegas that same month. Foley joined Jet Avia Inc., a private airline that charters jets for trips to the desert casino area.

Foley and pilot Donald Weier left Palm Springs' airport Thursday to fly Mrs. Sinatra and Anne Carbone of New Jersey to see Sinatra's opening at Caesars Palace.

Investigators say the jet veered off course and slammed into 11,485-foot Mt. San Gorgonio, Southern California's highest mountain, minutes after takeoff.

Two military helicopters and a 19-man rescue team were airlifted to the 9,500-foot level and spotted the wreckage Sunday. There they worked through five feet of snow to recover the bodies, strewn over a large area.

Paula Foley reportedly flew from her Las Vegas

Who can work in their own home?

LIVERMORE — Who needs city government permission to operate a business in their home?

That's the question coming before the planning commission 7:30 p.m. tonight when it is scheduled to study a proposed new home occupation policy for Livermore.

In addition to travelling salespeople who have offices in their home and piano teachers who are visited by their pupils, a lengthy list of home occupations will undergo close scrutiny in an effort to simplify past bureaucratic procedures.

The present policy, according to Community Development Director Manny Gorland, does not clearly delineate what is permissable and what isn't.

The commission will attempt to list uses which are exempt from home occupation permit requirements and which can be issued by a planning administrator without planning commission.

One problem in the past, said Gorland, was the calling of public hearings for borderline cases because of confusion about the code.

Commissioners will also look at a proposed sign ordinance amendment which would allow larger signs for freeway oriented inns, motels and hotels.

They also plan to discuss the method for calculating aggregate sign area allowed.

Another item scheduled for discussion involves the county's airport land use policy plan, with a close look at population figures and noise considerations.

OVERCOMING THE HOLIDAY HORRORS

Holiday horrors strike in several places. First, they hit you in the pocketbook. For this, I recommend soaking your wallet in liniment for a couple of months.

Another prominent place the horrors are likely to strike is in the tummy. Go on a fast for a day. Your tummy won't be so prominent.

Sometimes they get you in the brain. If you have mental confusion from the holidays, I can advise you about that. Just make a list, as I am doing, of everything you want to do, ought to do, must do, and better do in the new year. Look at your list frequently. If you should ever do anything on the list, check it off. This will give you a sense of accomplishment.

Some people will find they must make a rather thorough list. For instance, if you are really confused, your list will read something like this: Wake up. Open eyes. Do not squint (That makes wrinkles). Get out of bed. Look for slipper under bed. Look at list. Put on slippers. Put Teddy bear in dresser drawer. Look at list... You get the drift. This will get you started in the new year in an orderly fashion.

Now, about those pathetic yearnings for past holidays. Forget it. That darling puppy you got on Christmas when you were six. You named him Arfy. So he ate the legs off the dining room table, and when he grew up he ate the legs off the mailman. You seemed to have absorbed alot of the guilt for the bad things Arfy did. It scarred you for life, so forget Arfy.

Try to improve in the new year, so that next year you won't be hit so hard with the holiday horrors. Resolve to learn something. When you go to the library, stay away from the romantic novels. Get the Middle Eastfacts on the political crisis in the instead. And in the dentist's office, don't waste time reading McCall's about Sophia Loren and Robert Redford. Look at the dentist's charts and memorize the incisers and molars, their names and positions. This will provide you with a subject of conversation at parties.

And I'm going to put on my list to exercise every day: sit ups, sit downs, and lie downs, twenty times a day. And I'll watch my calories. Oh, how I'll watch my calories. At every meal, and in between.

And I'll recycle. Many things can be recycled by making them into planters. Make your old umbrella which will no longer close into a planter for hanging ferns.

If your car won't start, make it into a wonderful terrarium. Instructions: Fill the seats and floor with a ten inch layer of top soil. Roll up the car windows. Bore a hole in the roof, through which you can insert a three foot pair of tweezers with which you can do the planting. Extra large plants are good for this project. Split-leaf Philodendron and Elephant Ear plants are good. When you are through with the planting, put a cork in the roof hole.

Later, if you should need your car, just open the doors and have a plant sale.

In the new year, resolve to see things in a new light. In decorating, you might find ways of making things more interesting around the house. There's no law which says a rug must be on the floor. Glue it to the ceiling instead. It will deaden the sound of jets passing over. While thinking of ecology, build your own solar heating unit from recycled bicycle inner tubes arranged on your roof in a yin-yang pattern, to take advantage of the natural magnetic flows.

Unfortunately, this might remind us of the chauvinism which still lurks about. It was rampant with the ancient Chinese philosophers who invented yin and yang. They had the gall to say that the yin represented the female element, that stands for darkness, cold and death, and the yang represents the male element, source of life and heat. And Funk and Wagnall's Dictionary, to this day, continues to pass out this slanted idea.

Now, let's resolve next year to get back to the true meaning of New Years Eve. What's the true meaning? Good question.

Depressing news for the new year.: Chocolate cream pie is 400 calories, but a whole half hour bicycle ride burns up only 230 calories.

WHICH IS IT — a very small girl or a very large chair? She's actually 5 feet 5. Oversized chair was built for a furniture show in Taiwan.

'I was a pioneer'

DR. FLORENCE HARRISON

By JEAN McKENNA

Florence Harrison was a bright, uncommon young woman who picked up a pretigious doctor's degree in marine biology, did post-doctoral work at Stanford's marine station at Pacific Grove — and then suspended her career to raise two children and run a household.

Seven years later she resumed that career, becoming a principal investigator at the Lawrence Livermore Laboratory, supervising her own staff, writing her own proposals for research projects, occasionally leaving her family for a week's field trip to gather samples.

"I felt as though I were a pioneer," she admits. "Although I was very anxious to return to the work, there were a lot of pressures from those who disapproved. Thirteen years ago it was unusual to find a working mother, but I decided I needed to return for myself and that ultimately it would benefit the children."

Today Florence finds that women who originally disapproved of her having a career AND caring for a family, now seek to imitate her. Her son, a student himself now at Stanford University, is proud of his biologist - mother and physicist - father who can "answer any question." Her teenage daughter will soon be of an age to understand her mother's decision, Florence believes.

The marriage of Dr. and Dr. Harrison involved "alot of give from both" and a determination to "maximize the happiness."

Dr. Harrison, the biologist, admits that she's "an odd-ball scientist who likes people, not just things." She shows great interest in young women striving to become scientist like herself, and is willing to speak of her problems as professional woman in public forums. Another important priority in her life is community involvement.

As a member of the Livermore Woman's Club, she addressed that group recently on the work in which she and other scientists at LLL are involved. Dr. Harrison believes strongly in communicating scientific research and research goals to the public which has too often been left in the dark.

Dr. Harrison is now in charge of a research project to study the effects of heavy metal by-products released into the water by energy facilities such as nuclear or fuel - burning power plants. Her group — consisting of one doctor, one master, and two graduate students in science and a technician receives funding to study the effect of copper on acquatic animals. The study, funded by ERDA and the U.S. Nuclear Regulatory Commission, was initiated when many abalone died as a result of copper released into the water by PG&E's power facility at Diablo Canyon. The power company responded by replacing copper tubing in the condensor system with costly titanium tubing.

Dr. Harrison's group also spent five years studying the effects on aquatic life of radio - nyclides released by a facility at Humbolt Bay. She took her turn with the others in taking samples around the clock for that project, and has written a report on the study which will soon be published.

As part of her prsentation to the club, Dr. Harrison showed slides of other LLL groups at work studying air, water and other forms of pollution.

Moms fight birth defects

The Mothers' March Against Birth Defects gets underway this week in Alameda County with the "Pass Me Along" kit. By this method of collection the traditional marcher is replaced by a March of Dimes kit passed to homes in a neighborhood and returned to a central collection point.

March Fong Eu, California secretary of state, is serving again this year as head of the Alameda County drive. She has appointed Carol Bush of Pleasanton, Sue Hutchinson of Dublin, and Irene Mandeville and Virginia Madden of Livermore as local chairpersons.

"The March of Dimes works to protect the unborn and the newborn," says Secretary Fong. "Birth defects strike more than 200,000 American babies each year — it's our country's major child health problem. In addition, some 53,000 infants who are born too small, too soon or critically ill, die before their first birthday."

Kurtz at preschool

Peter Kurtz of Pleasanton's Valley Mental Health Clinic will address a parent meeting tonight at 8 p.m. for St. Bartholomew's Nursery School. He will introduce services provided by the clinic for families with young children.

The Tuesday topic is one in a series offered by the nursery school on child development every second and fourth Tuesday of the month. Parents of nursery school students and guests are welcome.

St. Bartholomew's is a denominational school which offers teacher - staffed morning sessions and parent - taffed afternoon sessions. For information call 443-0678.

Quit now!

Need help to stop smoking? A clinic sponsored by the Amrican Cancer Society may give you the incentive you need. Scheduled to begin Thursday, Jan. 13 at the Church of Christ (4481 East Ave.), the smoking cessation clinic will continue for eight two-hour evening sessions every Tuesday and Thursday and is led by an ex-smoker. For more information call 447-2440 (days) or 443-5718 (evenings).

'Roller' race at SunValley

You ride as fast as you can and you get nowhere in roller racing.

This year, the Fifth Annual Northern California Roller Race Championships will be held in the lower level of the Sun Valley Mall in Concord on Sunday, Jan. 16. Registration begins at 10 a.m. and the first heat starts at 11 a.m.

In a roller race, bicyclists operate on rollers as well as wheels. The bikes are placed on a set of wide rollers fastened to a metal floor frame. There is considerable side play as well as forward rolling motion, making balancing on the bicycles a tricky business.

The race is under the sanction of the United States Cycling Federation and sponsored locally by The Bicycle Shop of Concord and promoted by The Diablo Wheelmen, a group of Central County bicycle enthusiasts.

"This kind of race is as interesting to the spectators as it is to the participants," commented Don Milberger, owner of The Bicycle Shop. "The entire race takes place right in front of them."

There are four classes of riders (two senior classes, juniors and women) and prizes in each class.

Contact The Diablo Wheelmen, 228-6938 or 686-5674, for information regarding equipment regulations and entry fees.

Help for parents

New parents and their babes - in - arms are welcome to the programs at the Red Cross Building, 373 North L St., Livermore from 10:30 a.m. to noon.

There will be no talk Jan. 20.

Tri Valley Raiders Booster Club heads for Pasadena

Your $1.50 Superbowl pin, $20 ticket are essentials for this trip

Tired fan holds pom - pon, sign

They were wide awake at 8 a.m. Sunday, juggling blankets and flasks and field glasses as they boarded the PSA jet for Burbank.

Some 128 members of the Tri Valley Raiders Booster Club — including one couple who had flown to Miami nine years ago to watch the Raiders lose to the Green Bay Packers — climbed confidently aboard, led by president Dave Christensen who had made the charter arrangements.

Once in Burbank, the group skipped breakfast to board three chartered buses for the hour's drive to Pasadena. Their block of $20 seats was on the 25 - yard line behind the Raiders' bench and their spirits soared as the Raiders gained their lead in the second quarter of the game, continuing to hold it until their 32 - 14 victory.

In calmer times, the Boosters meet once a month, usually for dinner at the Pleasanton Hotel. Their guests are members of the Raiders team, with someone from the team's office serving as emcee.

The Superbowl climaxed years of Raider - watching for the 128 season ticket holders from the Valley. Following the game, the fans dined in Pasadena or at Burbank Airport, then had time for some reveling at the bar before their 9 p.m. flight took off.

"I think," says Sue Christensen, wife of the club president, "we kinda woke up the airport!"

Dr. Lamb

DEAR DR. LAMB — I was in the hospital for a week. On the doctor's form for medicare it said I have "cerebrovascular spasm and transient left hemiplegia." It sounds so ominous. Would you comment on it in your column? I am 76 years old, a female and until recently quite active. What can I do to combat this illness?

DEAR READER — The term means that your doctor thinks you had spasm of one of the arteries that supply blood to part of your brain. The temporary inadequate circulation to a portion of your brain caused temporary paralysis of your left side. Apparently it was of short duration and you recovered from the attack.

Some doctors call these attacks "transitory ischemic episodes" or TIA's. The exact cause is not certain. Some authorities think it is a spasm, as was stated in your case. Other authorities think it is caused by the breaking off of small clots that seed to the brain and cause a temporary blockage of small vessels in the brain.

What can you do about it? There is no one answer that applies to all cases. Some doctors have had good results in giving patients long term anti-clotting medicines. Even the daily use of common aspirin is under study for this purpose. However not enough facts are available yet to recommend aspirin regularly for public use.

If a person has high blood pressure it is well to control it. This is true anyway even without such episodes.

Patients with such an episode deserve careful study to determine if they have an underlying problem that needs treatment. In some cases of disease in arteries in the neck area surgery is helpful. Such decisions can only be made on a basis of fairly complex studies of the individual patient.

Otherwise there is very little you can do for yourself. Many people have such an episode or even more than one and then have no further difficulty for long periods of time thereafter. To give you more information on such episodes I am sending you The Health Letter number 2-5, Strokes: Cerebral Vascular Accident — Cerebral Thrombosis. Others who want this information can send 50 cents with a long, stamped self-addressed envelope for it. Just send your letter to me in care of this newspaper, P.O. Box 1551, Radio City Station, New York, NY 10019.

DEAR DR. LAMB — When my boy was born the hospital circumcised him. Will this procedure prevent him from having children of his own? I figure that maybe he will not have the sensitivity in that area that he would need.

DEAR READER — As a doctor I sometimes don't even think of some of the things people without a similar background might worry about. Frankly it would never have occurred to me that anyone would think that circumcision would prevent a man from being fully potent and normal sexually. I can assure you that the frequency of circumcision and the current birth rate clearly eliminate any possibility that circumcisions would prevent fertility. Your fears are completely unfounded. Your son will have the same opportunity as any uncircumcised boy to father children.

Johnny Wonder's QUESTION CORNER

Q. "WHERE DO SPONGES COME FROM?"

A. TRUE SPONGES ARE SIMPLE WATER ANIMALS THAT LIVE IN SEAS ALL OVER THE WORLD. THE "SPONGES" WE USE FOR CLEANING ARE REALLY THE SOFT SKELETONS OF SPONGES.

DICK Rogers
1-11

Many sponges we use are made of a synthetic material to look and clean like true sponges.

But if you should ever use a true sponge, you will be using the soft skeleton of a simple animal that once lived in the sea.

Sponges don't look like other animals. A sponge has no head or mouth. The sponge acts like a living filter by straining out bits of food matter from the water currents flowing through holes scattered over its body.

New sponges may come from eggs. When a sponge egg hatches, the tiny animal swims about for a while. Soon it settles down on a rock or a shell and begins to grow. For the rest of its life, it stays in the same place, much like a plant. A new sponge may also grow from a piece cut off another sponge. Sponges grow in many shapes and colors. Some look like fans. Others look like cups and vases. Some sponges grow in fresh water, but most live in warm seas.

By Oswald & James Jacoby

There is a real blunder in the play of today's hand. A real blunder, but of the sort that almost everyone makes.

South won the first trick with dummy's ace of clubs, led the six of hearts and finessed his queen. The finesse worked, but West dropped the jack. Now South couldn't lay down his ace and concede one trump trick. He had to lead a low heart to dummy's 10.

East took his king and led out the ace-king of spades.

South ruffed the second spade; entered dummy with the queen of diamonds; led the eight of hearts and let it ride after East played low. Now he tried to get back to his hand with a diamond, but East ruffed for the third defensive trick. South still had to lose a club and his contract.

Do you see where South made his blunder?

It was at trick two. He led the six of hearts from dummy. If he had led the eight when it came time to play that third trump from dummy he would have been leading the six. Then he could overtake with his seven, pluck East's last trump and chalk up the game.

Ask the Jacobys

A Mississippi reader asks what happens when the first defender fails to follow to the suit led by declarer, but discovers the error after dummy and the other defender have followed to the trick.

The answer is that the player announces, "I could have followed suit." Declarer may now demand that the offender play her highest or lowest card and then change the card played from dummy if he so desires. As for the other opponent, his card remains as played.

Finally — a party for the Raiders
On Sports

NEWPORT BEACH — The delirium long - suffering Oakland Raider fans contracted in Pasadena Sunday afternoon was of a variety so severe that they could scarcely permit their heroes an unattended trip to the powder room.

And while a rooter, flushed with victory, did the same to a nearby bathroom appliance, offensive captain Gene Upshaw revealed to a captive audience at the washroom of the Marriott Hotel here exactly how the Raiders ended their final workout for Sunday's thumping of the Minnesota Vikings.

They played baseball. With a tennis ball. While General Managing Sorceror Al Davis watched.

"Boy, I'll bet he chewed his fingernails off," marveled the fan.

"Naw," replied the 6-5, 255-pound inhabitant of Foothill Road. "He left all his fingernails back at the Pittsburgh game."

The occasion was the mandatory victory celebration in the grand ballroom of this fern-cluttered seaside inn. An intimate little affair for perhaps 2000 guests.

GENE UPSHAW

There was television star James "Rockford Files," a long-time Oakland fan, charming the family of all-purpose offensive lineman Henry Lawrence — clad in a plaid sport coat so close to his TV wardrobe that one was tempted to ask the whereabouts of Noah Beery.

Shotputter Brian Oldfield, dancing several of the more eligible foxes and looking at once uncomfortable and smug.

The media, forced to make an end run around a Runyonesque house detective who refused to believe that the Silver and Black had extended yet another freebie to the pampered writers, flocked to the gathering — sliding in their friends and neighbors with the help of a co-operative Raider front office aid.

The band, obviously delighted to find their current yawn, bomb, thank you, Juan, hotel date include the post-game bash for the champion of the pigskin universe, played "Volare" for defensive captain Wille Brown and did its best to whip the glowing mob into a frenzy for the second time in half a day.

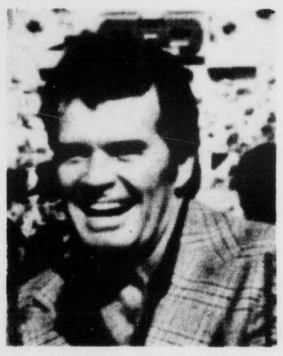
The waiters, looking more like candidates for the Occidental College JV's than the kingpin Raiders, sent silverware skittering to the floor and slopped leftover cake hither and yon on the simulated Persian carpeting.

Barmaids "floated" drinks so mercilessly that downing one began to cause reminiscence of crude high school bottle parties. Styles ranged from Lawrence's three - piecesuit to John Matusak's Alpaca sweater — and no shirt.

So, who stole the show? Gladys Sargent, that's who.

Gladys Sargent holds the distinction, she proudly told those staring at her, of being the only woman owner of Raider stock.

Her late husband bought into the club at its inception in 1960 (remember the "Senors?") and suffered through the miserable Candlestick, Kezar and Frank - Youell - Field - I'll - Pitch days until his death last fall.



JAMES GARNER

"They don't usually let the heirs stay in," Gladys explained Sunday. "But I managed too and I'm going to enjoy it."

Oh yes, as per why folks found her interesting viewing. Clutched in the arms of runaway joy over the Raider win hours earlier, she snatched the "1" from a table marker and modified that and its stand into a bonnet proclaiming both the Raiders' gridiron pre-eminence and her own stature as Oakland's token distaff shareholder.

When the call came at 11 p.m. for the owner's bus to depart, she strode purposefully out the front door in her pale green, glitter - trimmed evening dress and told the driver to go ahead and leave her behind.

"That suits me just fine," she stage - whispered. "I'm having too much fun to go now. After 17 years, I'm not going to leave early."

When the younger crowd began to poop out in the early moments of Monday morning, Gladys was still on the dance floor, puttin' kids one - third her age to shame.

Al Davis and John Madden pieced together football's finest team and ageless, boisterous and above all, classy, Gladys Sargent deserves it.

Silver and black overpower the graying purple gang

By Dave Weber

PASADENA — To a neutral observer it was one-sided enough and to a Minnesota Vikings' fan it was, typically, frustrating. But don't haul out the old cliches and label Sunday's 32-14 Oakland Raider win over the Vikes "Stupor Bowl XI."

The Raiders' masterful performance helped set six Super Bowl records and could easily be use as a training film for, let's say, the Tampa Bay Kicked - in - the - rears.

With Hollywood/Burbank a short swerve up the Golden State freeway, it was appropriate that films did indeed aide the Raider romp, which included new championship game marks for: Most yards gained (net) by a team, 429; Most yards gained rushing by a team, 266 and most yards gained by both teams, 782.

Incidentally, the game knocked down marks for paid attendance (103, 424) and actual attendance (100,421) thanks to the expanse of the legendary Rose Bowl while Willie Brown capped a classy 14-year pro career with a 75-yard interception return for a touchdown.

None of which came as a surprise to moviegoer Pete Banaszak of San Ramon, also a noted "money" running back.

"From watching the films during the week, I knew they couldn't stop us," he said. "Everybody moved the ball on them, but no one rang the bell on them."

For the first quarter Sunday, the Raiders were "everybody," holding the ball for 11:26, rolling up 159 yards and coming no closer to scoring than on their first drive when Errol Mann's 29-yard field goal try glanced off the left upright.

But in the second period: Ding-dong.

The Raiders concluded a 90-yard march with a successful Mann 24-yarder :48 into the quarter. The 13-play drive began with a bizarre exchange right on the Raiders' doorstep.

With six minutes to play in the opening period, Fred McNeill blocked and recovered the first punt Oakland's near-perfect Ray Guy had ever seen rebounding behind him; the Vikes taking over at the three. The threat lasted a play. On the second, Phil Villapiano's tackle jarred the ball out of Brent McClanahan's hands and the contest was never the same.

"I got under Ron Yary and I think I hit the ball with my helmet," Villapiano said. The drive that followed was the key, believes guard Gene Upshaw, like Villapiano a Valley resident.

"The turning point was when we got the ball on the two and drove them into the field," said Upshaw of the Raiders' telling 48-22 edge in first half offensive plays. "When you come up to the line and see the other guy's jersey going up and down kinda fast, you know they're getting tired."

And Minnesota's once - vaunted defensive front four looked winded from the outset. Only once when Alan Page took advantage of an Upshaw cramp to sack Oakland quarterback Ken Stabler did the line look like the Purple People Eaters of oulde.

Once the dam cracked there was no stopping the Raider torrent, featuring its turnover-less offense.

Seven minutes into the second period, Dave Casper did his Howard Hughes imitation and grabbed a one-yard scoring pass from Stabler, while 11 Vikings looked the other way.

"They were looking to stuff the run," Casper explained. "Play-action passes will always work well against that." While it developed in similar fashion, the call was not the same option play Stabler used to score the winning TD against New England three weeks ago.

Then it was Banaszak's turn and Pete, one of four Raiders who remember the loss to Green Bay in Super Bowl II, scored over right tackle from a yard away with 3:23 to go in the half.

Minnesota played like the perrenial Black and Blue division champs only once, for a 4:29 span of the third period. After another Mann field goal, Fran Tarkenton called 10 pass plays out of 12 as the Vikes scrambled 68-yards to a TD that came on Fran's first touchdown pass in four dismal Super Bowl appearances.

Sammy White went in motion to the left, sliced outside of substitute defender Neal Colzie and collected the eight-year score with :47 left in the period.

An interception by Willie Hall started the Raiders on their final touchdown drive, one that ended with Banaszak scoring again, this time from two yards out.

That and Brown's later theft were all Raider head coach John Madden needed to confirm a "great feeling" the Pleasanton resident had before the game.

"When Willie Hall intercepted the pass, I got relatively comfortable and when Willie Brown intercepted the pass and ran it back for a TD, I got very comfortable," Madden laughed afterward.

And at least for now, the Raiders have proved what their partisans have been claiming with statistic-fed fever for a decade — that they are simply the best team in football.

Does Viking coach Bud Grant agree? "I'd be crazy if I didn't," he said.

Super Bowl MVP
Freddie faces reality

LOS ANGELES — Fred Biletnikoff says he never worried about his speed "because I learned when I was about 15 years old that I didn't have it."

The sure-handed pass catcher of the Super Bowl champion Oakland Raiders also readily admits he's the nervous type. "I got an ulcer when I was a junior in college."

On Sunday when the Raiders went to the Rose Bowl, site of their 32-14 victory over the Minnesota Vikings, the wide receiver took four packs of cigarettes with him and he hadn't eaten since Saturday night.

But in the game, Biletnikoff caught four of Ken Stabler's passes for 79 yards. One of them, a 48-yard gainer in the fourth quarter, put Oakland on the Viking two and set up the touchdown that put the game out of reach at 26-7.

Biletnikoff was honored by Sport Magazine as the game's outstanding player, receiving an automobile. A spokesman for Sport said five other Raiders were considered — tight end Dave Casper, offensive linemen Gene Upshaw and Art Shell, running back Clarence Davis and quarterback Stabler.

His teammates kid Biletnikoff about his lack of speed. After his run to the two, he said, "They didn't have to say anything. They just looked at me and I knew what they were thinking."

Vikings fail again

Pity the poor Minnesota Vikings.

It was bad enough they were run right out of the Rose Bowl by the Oakland Raiders in Super Bowl X1 Sunday, 32-14.

Yet there they were Monday noon in their charter jet at Long Beach Airport waiting to return to frigid Minnesota when the Raiders showed up again.

Only this time the World Champions weren't wearing their football uniforms.

Oakland was also catching a flight, a much pleasanter one than Minnesota, back to the Bay Area where they were honored Monday night at a victory celebration at the Coliseum.

Anyway Coach Bud Grant and his Vikings didn't stop to chat with their conquerors. Better get out of town while the getting is good.

But then the Raiders of John Madden had something to do with that too.

As the whole world knows by this time, Oakland played a SUPER football game.

Grant agreed.

Said the white-haired Minnesota coach, who seldom smiles, "Oakland is the best football team we've met this season. But maybe we'd beat them if we played 'em tomorrow."

No, because this was the season of the Raider. As Grant, Tarkenton, Siemon and various other Vikings will tell you.

Oh well, there's always next year or is there Minnesota?

Wilkins can heave the shotput, too

By Gary Brown

SAN FRANCISCO — Mac Wilkins likes to throw the shot put for "fun" and calls it "a relief from throwing the discus."

Well, for a man who treats the shot put as a form of relaxation Mac sure does a good job.

The Olympic discus champion has thrown the shot over 68 feet indoors and hopes to reach that mark or more at the San Francisco Examiner Games indoor meet January 21 at the Cow Palace.

"I get a kick out of throwing the shot," Wilkins admitted at a press conference at the Golden Gateway Holiday Inn here yesterday. "I plan to throw the shot put more this indoor season in preparation for the outdoor season."

Wilkins had the leading indoor mark by a United States shotputter last season despite throwing the round ball infrequently.

The 6-4, 255 pound discus world record holder is currently living in San Jose and has worked out hard the past month.

"I've probably had some of the hardest training of my life the past month," he said.

Why is that so in this, a year after an Olympic season when the world's top track athletes usually wind down from the pressure of the long grind?

"To get ready for the indoor season," Wilkins answered quickly. "I reached an emotional and physical peak for the Olympics but I want to stay active and excel in the sport."

Wilkins was rumored to have a intense feud with long-time rival John Powell last year and Mac admitted it was true.

"At first every time I met him he just seemed very rude to me," he said. "He's just not a very warm person. At last we sort of worked things out to an extent."

Mac has been a big critic of the way the United States Olympic program has been run and he expressed some thoughts on how it could be improved.

"I think the idea of having training facilites at Lake Tahoe are very good," he admitted. "However, we would have to expand the program at all levels. Right now there are only about one or two people in the country who seem determined to improve our program."

Wilkins also believes that the popularity of professional sports has hurt amateur athletics in this country.

"Oh, yes I would say it's had a great impact on society," Wilkins said about pro sports. "If we had more emphasis on amateur sports we'd had more people involved in physical activities instead of just sitting in chairs watching the big pro events."

Other top athletes at the luncheon who will compete in the Examiner Games were Olympic 200-meter champion Don Quarrie, quarter - miler Benny Brown and Olympic long jump champ Arnie Robinson.

Robinson stated one of the main reasons he was going to compete in the Games was the presence of arch-rival Randy Williams.

"I'll be ready to jump," Robinson laughed. "I think I'm the best long jumper in the world. He thinks he is. I know he's not."

Robinson admitted that he had no personal feelings against Williams.

"We're good friends off the field," he said. "It's just that he beat me at Munich (the 1972 Olympics) and I came back to take him at Montreal."

Arnie, 28, said he had no desire to quit long jumping yet.

Robinson admitted he had one main goal left in track.

"That's to break a mark held by Ralph Boston, Mr. Long Jumper," he commented. "Ralph had 27 jumps over 27 feet. I've got 14. I want to break his record."

Sanck duo hot in Realtors win

Kevin Sanck pumped in 22 points while brother Keith Sanck added 10 as Columbus Realty waltzed to a 41-36 win over Galaxy Records in Tri-Cities Basketball action at Camp Parks last week.

Galaxy's Jeff Deming led the losers with 13 points.

The Has Beens rolled up an impressive 41-14 halftime lead in taking a simple 60-28 win over outmatched K.W. Penco.

Walt Packard led the winners' attack with 20 points, while Virgil Dahl netted 10, Lloyd Block hot for nine, and Pete Iversen canned ten in the romp.

Paul Falkenstein led K.W. Penco with 14 points, while Keith Rodgers added three field goals.

Nick Gigliotti scored 20 points, including three in overtime, to propel Harris Realty to a 30-29 win over Dependence Heating and Cooling.

Ed Bottoroff, who fouled out of the contest, led the losers with 11 points.

Mike Murphy canned 15 points while teammates Gene Powell and Gene Valla each had nine as Systech whipped Jones Hocking, 48-35.

Jim Schmidt led the losers, who trailed 17-15 at halftime, with 11 points.

The Flaming Turkeys held on to a slim 18-16 halftime lead and wound up 34-30 winners over Red Carpet in final action of Tri-Cities play.

Reggie Mitchell's 20 points went for naught for the Turkeys, who fell prey to the hot shooting of Bob Nielsen (eight points), Gary Jensen (nine points), and Pat Duke (six points).

Learn interior decoration

Does your home or apartment need a little sprucing up?

Would you like to know some of the long - hidden secrets of good interior decoration?

If the answer is yes, the Livermore Adult School still has openings in its Winter Quarter class in interior decoration held Tuesday evenings.

Instruction covers use of color, line, form, texture, furniture and arrangement. Advanced students may wish to design and decorate a scale model of a home. Outside resource speakers on various subjects are planned as part of this course.

If your home is already decorated, but you'd like to add an original designed pillow or wall hanging, "Needlepoint" is the class for you. On Thursday evenings you will lean all the basic stitches and how to create designs. As you progress through the course you will learn how to combine needlepoint with other forms of stitchery. Articles of clothing, jewelry and ornaments will also be discussed and introduced in this class.

Both classes are being taught by Adele Nickison, well known local arts and crafts instructor, who has had several showings of some of her original works. Mrs. Nickison earned her BA from the University of California, Berkeley, in decorative arts. She specializes in handcrafted items and has taught elementary and high school as well as adult classes.

Details on the free Livermore Adult School courses, which are now underway for winter quarter, are available from the office at 3044 East Ave., 447 - 6671.

Finally, Vantage Longs.

The first long cigarette to bring good taste to low-tar smoking.

Like a lot of smokers you may like the idea of a longer cigarette. You may also want low tar.

But longer cigarettes usually have more tar. Well, Vantage just wouldn't go along with that.

So we worked. Until we could perfect a longer cigarette with the famous Vantage combination of full flavor and low tar. Not the lowest long cigarette you can find. But very possibly the lowest that you will enjoy.

New Vantage Longs. A blend of flavor-rich tobaccos with tar levels held down to the point where good taste still comes through.

That's the Vantage point. And that's the point of Vantage Longs. Never before has there been a long cigarette quite like it.

Try a pack today and see if you go along with us.
